These were examples of quick justice, both being convicted during the third week in September, and no appeal being taken to the higher court. Both men passed a resiless night. Davis, whom the physicians described as a coward, laid down about it o'clock in the afteracon, and, while frequently turning and twisting in bed, did not speak to the guards. Smith, while slightly nervous, made no trouble. He talked at intervals with the death watch, and spoke once or twice to Bat Shes.

Some time ago the Hon. Richard A. Derriak, of Rensselaer county, wrote to Warden Thayer, and asked him to ask Smith if he had set fire to his barns in Brunswick, and those of Schuyler Hayner, of Valley Falls. Yesterday afternoon Smith sent for the warden and handed him this letter:
"Dear Sir:—I understand the people of the towns of Brunswick and Valley Falls have had suspicion of my being implicated in the burning of the barna belonging to Richard A. Derrick, of Brunswick, and Schuyler Hayner, of Valley Falls. I beg to say I am perfectly innocent of the crime. Neither do I know who did do it.

"Yours truly,

"GEO. H. SMITH."

Both men ate very light breakfasts, at a later hour than usual, and then sat on the edge of their cots, awaiting the call of the executioner. They saw the chaplain, and were with him for about twenty minutes. Shortly after 11 o'clock the witnesses were summoned to the execution chamber, and the usual test of the apparatus was made by the electrician.

Smith was the first man brought in, at 11.30 o'clock. He walked with a dict of involuntary manslaughter and recommended a jail sentence of six months as a penalty. At the conclu-sion of the trial the success of Messrs. Sadler and Davis called forth the Carlstadt, Oct. 29.—August Rehfelt, a tailor living in Rutherford, made a bet on the result of the Republican County convention with Jos. Keasler, the Democonvention with Jos. ribulations of the Young Duke of Mari rough-His Arrest in the Park-A Neu candel Among the Four Hundred . That Yacht Race Political Turmell.

Special New York Letter.

There are indications that the international marriage is destined to be come impopular. It is already unpopu ar in England, where the British wo man has set her face so decidedly against her American sister capturing all the eligible bachelors of the nobility that the press has been forced to take up her cause and to launch shafts of ridicule and envy against the all-con quering American heiress. Notwithstanding our national good humor there is now evidence that the British noble is becoming equally-unpopular in this country. The young Duke of Marlborough, in his short career among us of one of our wealthiest young heiresses, has found himself placed upon anything but a bed of popularity. He

The Duke's offence "coasting" on his bicycle at a greater speed than six miles an hour which is the limit allowed by the Park regulations. But to be arrested by 'sparrow policeman," as the gray-coat ed Park guardians are called, is to sound the very depths of local humil-lation. It looks as if Fate itself was against the British noble who in the future seeks fortune and domestic bliss in the "land of the free and the home

Taken all in all, however, Maribor ough is generally liked by our people He is a good fellow, and has shown no little good nature and diplomacy in meeting the rather trying American conspicuousness that has been dished out to him. He has been exceptionally courteous to the newspaper men, al though they have treated him rather freely in the way of bogus interviews and sensational items. He has had the good luck or good taste to take all the "roasting" he has received without any signs of temper, and in the long run good nature and manly endurance are Be honest if you want to make quite as well liked in our cosmopolitan town in a British peer as in an inde-pendent American sovereign.

private correspondence Mr. Van Alen is well known in New York and Newport social circles. The public will remember him as the man President Cleveland nominated for Minister to Italy in the spring of 1893, and about whom a considerable newspaper scandal was kicked up owing to his having made a considerable contribution, said to be $50,000, to the Democratic campaign in 1892. He declined the office, although confirmed by the Senate. He is estimated to be worth $12,000,000, and is forty-seven years of age. He has occupied a very promi-

He is an excellent linguist. Many think that he bears a very strong personal resemblance to the Prince of Wales, although he is a larger and more stalwart man. Twenty years ago he married the eldest daughter of the afterwards. He has three children who are being educated in Europe. The rumor from London that Charles D. Rose is likely to withdraw his challenge for the America cup, owing to opposition in England to his plans, and particularly to the complaints of Lord Dunraven, excites very little comment here. The New York Yacht Club cares very little about the matter, as there is a member of the Royal Yacht Squadon who is ready to challenge if Rose backs out. Just now, perhaps, owing to the Venezuela difficulty, the flame already ignited between the sporting men of the two countries is likely to be fanned into a fleroer blaze. Americans are not disposed just now to act in a very compromising spirit, and the good temper that has hitherto been showed the carping Britishers is not likely to be further indulged. John Bull is getting rather too dictatorial. His bad d has been aroused by continuous defeats at the hands of the Yankees, and his commercial supremacy and shipbuilding industries are being threatened by American competition. There is doubtless good excuse from his own standpoint for his loss of temper, but it will cut very little ice in the present atmosphere of the republic. It is certain that the local politician has never witnessed a more complicated and amusing political campaign than is at present drawing to an issue. The result, according to the best source of information, is likely to prove the eternal vitality of machine politics, or else the natural tendency of indep movements to backslide into the regular party traces. As a matter of fact, political bossism was never at a lower discount, but the tendency is nevertheless apparent for the old party organ izations to resume their destined sway. The fruits of reform will not be lost, however, Mayor Strong and Mr. Roose velt have made a permanent mark already upon local government, and they have two more years in which to continue their work, spite of any election result in the meantime.

Tragle Death of the Eldest Son of the Famous Bonansa King.

News was received during the past week of the tragic death, near Paris, of John W. Mackay, Jr., the eldest son of John W. Mackay, the famous Callfornia bonansa millionaire, founder and chief owner of the Commercia Cable and Postal Telegraph Company The young man and his brother Clar ence have been spending their vacation in Europe, dividing their time between their mother and stepsister, the Princess Colonna, both of whom reside in was caused by an accident, due to a too daring disposition. For some days he and two friends, Mesers. Lynch and Digby, had been trying some horses which they had lately purchased, over hurdles and ditches on a course laid out by Mr. Mackay on the estate of the Duke of Grammont, in the departmen of the Sarthe, which he had rented Mr. Mackay mounted a particularly restive horse. The horse bolted from the track and rushed through the thickets. Mr. Mackay succeeded in dodging several of the trees, but he soon overcome by the exertion, lost all control of his horse, reeled in the saddle and finally collided with fearful force against a tree, which he struck with his head and knee. The collision hurled him to the ground, and when his friends rushed to the spot they found him suffering from ghastly wounds in the head, both of his eyes being crushed. All the imediate attempts to restore the unfortunate young man to consciousness proved futile, and he was carried home and doctors were called. The latter, after three hours of attention, succeeded in restoring their patient to con-sciousness, but he had several relapses ing, after shaking hands with and saying good-by to his friends. His last farewell was to a favorite dog, which would not leave his bedside. No mem-ber of the Mackay family was present at the deathbed.

His Rapid Rise From Humble Sur roundings - What Pluck and Energy

Special Albany Letter.

One of the most beautiful homes along the banks of the Hudson River, where magnificent residences abound, is that of Governor Morton at Ellerslie. Governor and Mrs. Morton have thrown open their home for a loan exhibition, which is organised in the interests of the Free Library of Rhinebeck. The details of this work were in charge of Miss Idelia Morton, and nothing was lacking to make the affair a brilliant

Contributions to the exhibition were not confined to people of social prom-inence, but the public at large took deep interest and of course made it a remarkable success. It is impossible to read here a list of the relics that have been on exhibition; but among them may be mentioned family portraits, rare laces, old china, gold and silver ware and exquisite gowns, many of which have never before been loaned Perhaps the most highly prized relic at the exhibition was a bit of drapery loaned by Mrs. Archibald Rogers, and which was formerly the property of Marie Antionette. It is said to have covered the altar before which she

The executive mansion at Albany which is the Governor's official residence, has undergone a thorough renovation during the absence of the family this summer, and is now nearly ready for occupancy. Many important improvements have been made by the Superintendent of Public Buildings, and it has been made in all respects a suitable home for the Governor of this great State.

The good old custom of ornamenting the Albany Common Council chamber with oil portraits of all the Governors of the State is happily to be continued, and Mr. Morton is now being painted appropriation for this work to $1,000 for picture, but Governor Morton, it eration of economy are permitted to The painting will soon be completed over Washington Park.

He is one admires the energy and persistency friend and admirer of William C. Whit which he has displayed, and which have already made him one of the wealthest Democratic nominee for the Presiden

Early in life young Brady was fully convinced that he must make his own way, and he set about the task with a degree of determination and enthusiwhich almost won the battle at the outset.

When fourteen years of age he became connected with the Delavan House, in Albany, in an humble posttion, and soon after opened a retail tea store on South Pearl street. In a very short time there were other ten stores with the Brady sign over their front doors, and in a few years there were not many others in the city. Gradually he reached out to adjoining towns and on the front porch talking to his h soon controlled the tea trade of this thinking to postpone his departure till part of the State

But this field was not broad enough of this aggressive young man. The streets of Albany were then paved with cobble pavement. A movement was in-augurated to put in new sewers and a ecent pavement. Mr. Brady immediately became a contractor, and for many years he controlled pearly all the work of this description which was done in Albany. He built sewers and laid pavement by the mile, and soon became the owner of an immense stone quarry from which the paving blocks

Fifteen years ago Albany had a gas company which was struggling along and manufacturing its gas under the old system. Mr. Brady's keen eye saw that there was money to be made in this business by introducing new methods and cutting off useless expenses He quickly mastered the subject, and very soon had a controling interest in the company. His operations were then extended to Troy, where the same dition of affairs prevailed. Se Murphy, Governor Flower and Mr. E. C. Benedict became associated with Mr. Brady in the development of these en-terprises, but to Mr. Frady's great ability as a manager is their success chiefly due. More recently Mr. Brady turned his attention and directed his energies toward a reorganization and consolidation of the Chicago gas companies. This plan met with opposition from the Standard Oil Company, but under the skilful and able management of Mr. Brady it has at last proved successful, and the consolidated stock has now been listed in Wall street and has risen more than twenty points in

Ten years ago Mr. Brady's attention was directed to the wretched horse railroad system of Albany and Troy, and he immediately commenced operations which have resulted in a com-plete reorganisation of the entire sys-tem of both cities, including the West Troy line, which connects the two, and is a very lively competitor with the belt line steam railroad.

on after his first electrical succ Soon after his first electrical success which might have truly electrified capitalists had they known what was to come, Mr. Brady formed in Albany company for the construction of stree railways, based on patents for the laying of a peculiar framework, with con-necting joints between the rails. The patents were tried in Albany.

Here, too, interesting developments followed. Mr. Brady's company was employed to put down the new patent track on the street railway in Harlem, now known as the Huckleberry road. The company put down the track, but couldn't get any pay for it. So it had to take the road itself in payment. This read was then reorganised, and with it were consolidated several small lines and the Hon. E. A. Mahar, of Albany was placed in charge. Although not successful as was predicted, the road is destined to become a very valuable property as the population on its line

Other large railroad operations in New York city, Brooklyn and Provi dence, R. L. have more recently en grossed the attention of this prosper ous Albany boy, and in one of these a few months ago Mr. Brady drew a check for $1,000,000. It is said that in two days' time he consummated the deal for the purchase of the Provide lines, which have been capitalised at $16,000,000.

HOW THE POST WAS NAMED.

lergeant Aperson, Who Died on the Daneing Shadow of the Flag.

Cot. Will L. Visscher tells a pathetic story in connection with the organiza-tion of a G. A. R. post at Tacoma. The average post is named after some one of the great generals who were conspicuous in the war. But there are many names which, though perhaps not prefixed by any grand titles, are fully as worthy of the honor as any that have been used. Col. Visscher felt this most emphatically at the time of the organi-sation alluded to. When the question of a name arose, there were dozens offered, and no doubt that of some noted general or brigadier-general would have been selected had it not been for the Colonel's story. As it was, however, the post was organized, Col. Visscher was elected commander and the name of Coleman R. Aperson was adopted, amid the greatest enthusiasm.

"Coleman R. Aperson, of Kentucky," said Col. Visscher, when he had the flooor, "was one of the warmest, dearest friends I ever had, and the keenest grief I ever felt was when he was shot through the heart while at my side, in the trenches of the battle of Resaca. We were a Damon and Pythias if there ever were two such personages. Coley, as I used to call him, held no higher rank than that of a quartermaster's sergeant, and he had no business whatever in a battle. But he would go in, and many times we have fought side by side. Just before Ressca I asked him to keep out

"'Don't go into this, Coley,' I begged." But I shall,' he replied; T want ome more of that same Chickamaure

"Our regiment was the Twenty-fourth Kentucky Infantry, and at that time I was the color sergeant of the regi-ment. Notwithstanding all my plead-ing, Coley was fully determined to enter the fight. He succeeded in getting the second sergeant of the color guard, who sarries the State flag, to give up his place, and thus we were close together.
Once more I tried to dissuade him. I had an undefined feeling that if he went in he would be killed.

"Why, what's the matter with you to-day, Will?" he exclaimed. What makes you so nervous about me? You never were so before.

"I know it, Coley,' I answered, but to-day I have a fear. I can't tell why, but for some reason I feel as if you were going to be shot."
"He looked at me a moment brightly, and then spoke words I have never for-

The State of the Righteeus Dead. The Rev. Dr. B. B. Tyler read a pa-per on September 24 at the regular weekly meeting of the Baptist ministers of New York city on "The State of the Righteous Dead." The New York Her-ald reports Mr. Tyler as saying, in part:

"In the New Testament there are two classes of texts referring to the 'state of the righteous dead.' No theory can be correct that does not harmonize them. Previous to the death of Christ there are several allusions to the intermediate or middle state. Hades expressed the state of the dead, without regard to their condition. At death the good and bad alike went into hades. The rich man lifted up his eyes in hades, being in tor-hades.' Hades included both Paradise "I know it to be a fact," said a lady and Tartarus—the one the abode of the righteous, the other the place for the wicked. Christ did not go to the Father while His body was in the grave, for en the day of His resurrection He said to Mary: 'I have not yet ascended to my Father? It was there made evident that paradise was not the dwelling place of God-that it was not what we call heaven—it was but the intermediate, or middle state. "Previous to the glorification of Jesus paradise was in hades. Every passage in the Bible so teaches. Now paradise is in heaven. Every passage subsequent to the resurrection of the Son of God so teaches. Heaven and hades are two distinct places. One of the main points of dissimilarity between the old covemant and the new is that in the new our sins and iniquities are remembered no more, while under the old they were continually brought to remembrance by the offering of buils and goats, typical of Him who, in the fulness of time, would make a real atonement of our

Dr. Tyler went on to express the be Hef that all the righteous who died previous to the resurrection of Christ walt ed in an intermediate resting place before they were admitted to heaven Heaven was therefore a place closed to mortals during all the early days of the world's history. He continued:

"Jesus in his death in some sense van quished the devil. When Jesus died he went into hades, as we have seen. Its within its gates and Satan held the keys. Could he have held Jesus as his prisoner as he has held all the rest of the human race the story of the world's redemption would never have been told. Satan was clamorous to get the Son of God into the grave, under the dominion of death. He little thought that, in this, Jesus would only stoop to conquer. He voluntarily went within. He feared not to meet Satan in his own dominion. When, on the third day, He came forth he wrested from Satan the keys of hades, opened its gates and came forth conqueror. Not only so; he dragged the eaptor captive. Hence he said to John on the Isle of Patmos: 'I was dead, and behold. I am alive forevermore, and I have the keys of death and of hades." Hitherto Satan had carried them, but now they suspend from the girdle of the Son of God; hence in His the Son of God destroyed the power of Satan over the dominion of death. #### BULLS FIGHT TO THE DEATH.

Terrific Combat for 8500 Takes Place in

To settle a bet made by their owner two bulls met in a duel to the death nea Callahan, Fla. The combat took plac in an inclosed space in the Piney Woods about 200 feet square, says the New York Morning Journal, and was witnessed by over 1,000 citizens, many of them from Jacksonville and Fernandina. The bulls were owned by Messra McLendon and Jones, wealthy planters No gamer animals ever met in the arena The Jones bull was of a red color an the McLendon animal of a dun hue The bulls were about eight years old and each weighed about 900 pounds. The animals have been noted for their flerce ness, and their owners have been forced to keep them closely confined.

The other day the owners met and b gan discussing the fighting qualities of the bulls, which resulted in an agreement to match the animals for $500 side.

The animals were driven into the aren from opposite sides, and then began a contest, which will long be remembered by those present. The bulls were eager for the fray and immediately dashed at one another. They met with terrific force in the middle of the arena. Both seemed partially stunned by the shock of the collision. The red bull was the first to recover, and dashed at the dun animal, succeeding in gashing the latter in the side The wound only served to enrage the dun bull, and he repaid it in kind, tearing open the flank of the red ar imal. The contest continued for thir ty minutes with the utmost ferocity each animal giving and receiving dozens of wounds. The red bull was the mor active, and, probably, bore fewer wounds than his opponent. Both animals were now winded and seemed willing to rest a few minutes. Bets were 2 to 1 that the red bull would win.

As soon as the animals had rested they dashed at one another again, meeting in the middle of the arena. Both bulls fell to the ground and seemed unable to rise The red animal gave a conclusive kick or two and became still, while the dun bull continued to struggle, but could not The spectators approached and found that in the collision one of the dun's horas had entered the right eye of the red animal, penetrating the brain and causing instant death. The animals met with such force that the dun bull could not withdraw his horn, and the skull of the red animal was split in order to release the victor. Although the dun bull had won by a chance blow, he was horribly wounded. He had been torn in twenty places by the horns o his opponent, and his wounds will probably prove fatal. The sand of the arena resembled the floor of a slaughter house so profusely were the combatants bled It is estimated that $4,000 change hands on the result. The spectators most of whom saw the Corbett-Mitchel mill, say the contest beat prize fighting.

Don't Get Red-Headed.

The general supposition is that to "ge red-headed" is slang for getting angry This is based upon the prevalent belief that red-headed persons are more ex citable and liable to sudden passion than other people—a belief hardly in harmony with the fact that the dark haired, dark skinned races of southern climes are more highly strung and vio lently passionate than the fair haired natives of the north.

But does not the hair really and ac tually change hues under the more vio lent emotions, just as does the complexion? There are plenty of instances where intense fear and mental sufferwas in the grave, yet this was a place of ing have blanched hair to snowy white

"I know it to be a fact," said a lady which there isn't a tinge of red under ordinary circumstances.

"I got terribly angry one day," she continued, laughingly, "and my hair turned red as could be. Fortunately, it went back again to its normal condition. A brute in human form cut off the tail of my pet cat. I could have seen that man hanged without the quiver of an eyelid, I believe. My husband came in about that time, and, without knowing the cause of my wrath, suddenly exclaimed:

"'Why, Allie, your hair is turning red!"

"'Well, you'd get "red-headed," too said I-thinking of the slang for getting angry-'if somebody had chopped your dog's tail off."

'But I don't mean that,' he replied; it is actually getting red! Look in the glass. It is queer I never noticed it be-

THE WICKED WEEVIL.

Unele Sam to Try to Stamp Out the Inser Grain-Destroyer.

The pernicious weevils are making themselves so obnoxious in this country that experts of the Department of Agriare now engaged in making special study of them. Every year they destroy many millions of dollars' worth of stored cereals in granaries and ele vators. In fact, the question how to fight them is one of serious and growing conomic importance. Strange to say lirected to these insects up to date, and not much is known about them. It is reckoned that they cause an annua oss of over $1,000,000 in Texas alone, an in 1893 the corn crop of Alabama amaged by them to the extent of $1,-$70,000.

There are about forty species of these insects, some of which are beetles and others moths. Nearly all of them are assisted immigrants, having been imported from abroad in cargoes of grain in this manner they have been distrib ated by commerce to all parts of the world.

Three of the species actually live in he kernels, while the others feed on the starchy contents. Grain infested by them is unfit for human consumption. and has been known to cause serious illness. It is poisonous to horses, and in not wholesome even for swine. Poultry, however, find it palateable and nutritious. The moths especially are prolific that the progeny of a single pair in a twelve-month will number many thousands, capable of destroying several tons of grain. Fortunately, the in crease of these pests is checked to some extent by natural enemies, among which are spiders that inhabit mills and granaries. In the fields they are preyed One of the worst of these insects is mentioned in the Georgies of Virgil. Its ravages made it known long before the Christian era. It is native to the region of the Mediterranean. Having been domesticated for so long a time, i has lost the use of its wings. The female punctures the kernel with her mout and inserts an egg from which is hatched a little worm that lives in the Quite as bad as this beetle is a moth that comes from the Mediterranean region also. The larva, which is known in the United States as the "fly weevil," does most injury to corn and wheat. In six months grain infested by it loses 40 per cent. in weight and 75 per cent. of its starchy matter. Incidentally, it is rendered totally unfit for food, and bread made from wheat infested by the insect is said to have caused an epidemic recently in France. The pest was noticed the familiar "granary weevil," which is in North Carolina as early as 1728. Another wicked imported bug is the 'rice weevil." It originated in India, whence it has been distributed by commerce all over the world. At present it does as much harm as any other known insect, being a serious pest in the South-ern States. In the tropics generally it does enormous damage. Formerly when long voyages were necessary in importing grain from the East, it frequently destroyed whole cargoes, hav-ing plenty of time to multiply. The adult beetles of this species cause much trou ble in storehouses and groceries by in yading boxes of crackers, cakes, yeas cakes and macaroni and barrels and bins of flour and meal. They can subsist for months on sugar, and some times they burrow into ripening peache and grapes. A new grain-destroyer has recently attracted attention in this country, and has earned for itself the title of "scourge of the flour mill." It is the "Mediterranean flour moth." The caterpillars spin webs which make the flour clotted and lumpy, so that the machinery in the mills becomes clogged and has to be stopped for a considerable time. The larvae prefer flour or meal, but they flourish also on bran, prepared cerea foods and crackers. This subject is considered of such im portance that much space will be devoted to it in the forthcoming Year Book of the Department of Agriculture The remarks made therein are based upon recent study of weevils and their habits by Mr. F. H. Chittenden, of the Bureau of Entomology. Farmers are informed that the best remedy for such mischief is bisulphide of carbon, which may be applied in moderately tight bins by simply pouring the liquid into shal ow pans or on bits of cotton waste and distributing them about on the surface

The stuff rapidly evaporates, and the vapor, being heavier than air, descends and permeates the mass of grain, kill ing all insects as well as rats and mice which it may contain. In France a number of muchines have een devised for the treatment of infested grain. Into these the grain is poured and either revolved while exposed to heat or subjected to a violent agitation, which kills the insects. Frequent handling of grain by shovelling. stirring or transferring from one recep tacle to another is destructive to the moths, as they are unable to extricate themselves from the mass and perish in the attempt. The practice of storing grain in large bulk is also recommended as the surface layers only become in fested. Natives in India store their wheat in air-tight pits to preserve it from the rice weevil, and condemn ven-tilation. In Europe and America, or the other hand, ventilation is practised with decided benefit.

one of Them Says It is to Please the

A group of young women sat around dainty tea table discussing dress and their wafers almost in the same breath "I am only beginning to take an interest in my gowns," said a sun-browned maid who had just returned from a ty-six girls to three men. "Although my summer costumes were perfectly lovely I did not thrill over them once for what was the use of donning the most becoming frock when there no men to be overpowered by the effect. I argue that we dress to please the men, therefore I state in all candor that I don't care a button what sort of gowns I have unless I know that men are going to see them."

"But a woman knows more about their value and their style," put in a brown-eyed creature who always looks

"That's all very true," argued number one, "but the influence that men exreise upon women's dress is certainly underestimated. The taste of the hus band, the taste of the lover, of the intimate friend, and even of the brother, has always to be deferred and submitted to, and in each and every case is acknowledged to be superior to that possessed by his fair subject. The secret of this is, perhaps, in a measure due to the fact that the masculine eye sees and judges from the effect pro-duced, and a verdict is passed accordingly, whereas the feminine mind is of-ten distracted by the choice of color. material, trimming and style offered; and when and where natural good taste does exist it is frequently dominated by the will of another actuated by selfinterest, and thus good judgment is for the moment overpowered. Again, the desire to confine expense within a certain limit is another fertile source of sacrifice on the altar of good taste. Still, allowing all this and more, the fact remains incontrovertible that a man intuitively knows what suits a woman better than she does herself." With a convincing air the speaker set her cup down, gave herself a furtive glance in the mirror, and departed to be seen soon after on Walnut street look ing perfectly radiant as she walked along quite conscious that the man by her side regarded her get-up as emi-nently fetching.—Philadelphia Times.

A French Board and Its Lesson

In the country districts in France oards are put up telling people what animals and insects should not be killed and the reason, and also which ones should be exterminated in order to afford protection to the farmer. First on the board is this:

"This board is placed under the protection of the common sense and honesty of the public." And, of course, after that no boy or man would mar or remove the board. Then follows these instructions: "Hedgehog lives upon mice, snails and wire worms animals injurious to agriculture. Don't kill a hedgehog. "Toad helps agriculture, wenty to thirty insects hourly. Don't "Mole destroys wire worms, larvae and nsects injurious to the farmer. No trace of vegetables is ever found in his stomach; does more good than harm. Don't kill moles. "Cook chafer and its larvae deadly enemy to farmers; lays seventy to 100 eggs. Kill the cock chafer. Birds-Each department of France oses yearly many millions of francs by the injury done by insects. Birds are the only enemy capable of battling with them vigorously; they are great helps to farmers. Children, don't take bird's nests." Among the animals which need killing on a farm are mice and rats, and the reason they increase in spite of the constant warfare of cats and dogs is be cause the boys on the farm kill the animals that would destroy the pests if they had a chance.

College Diplomas and Debts.

Ann Arbor boys, says the Detroit Tribune, are ordered that they "cannot be graduated" unless they "pay up all their debts." The enterprise smells of the shrewdness of the thrifty townspeo ple of Ann Arbor. A little board bill here, a little beer bill there, a laundry bill somewhere else—no diploma. This is sheer nonsense. The faculty of the university should never descend to such truckling with local merchants. Is the Board of Regents to be regarded as a collection agency? Is the terror of withholding a well-earned diploma to intimidate the boys into paying all their bills on a certain day? Well, some of them have not the money, and what then Are they to be disbarred? It is about time that some one out in that town was bold enough to make a test case. We would advise the young gentleman to do as they please about their bills, and not construe the faculty as a bill collecting agency.

The Mirror.

Every house should contain at least one mirror of sufficient length to enable one to see one's self within it at full length No woman ever knows quite what an appearance she makes until she thus sees herself, and ther are many little defects of dress only to be remedied by such observation. Many gowns would hang very differently, or be of different lengths, and sometimes, too, very much better boots would be donned, if the "gift" were thus given "to see ourselves as others see us."

Oil on Troubled Waters.

A seaman in the United States Navy has invented a machine for distributing oil at sea to lessen the volume of break ing waves. It consists of a metal tan in a box with a door in the side to zhow a gauge, which indicates the quantity oil in the tank. A rubber tube passfrom the bottom of the oil tank through the top of the surface of the sea. the end of this rubber tube is a bu for siphoning the oil from the tank The naval authorities will take the ma: ter up and experiment with it.

The engineer of the train says he did not see the wagon until he was right on top of it, as there was a sharp curve approaching this point, and the engine struck the wagon about the middle, demolishing it and killing all four me The horse escaped uninjured. After the coroner's inquest the bodies will be shipped to Youngstown. #### Santa Clara Laid Waste.

Havana, Oct. —A cyclone has caused havoc in Santa Clara province. The wind blew at the rate of ninety miles an hour, uprooting trees, wreck-ing houses and laying waste cane fields. The damage is enormous. The people in the interior villages are thoroughly ilscouraged at so many successive ca-lamities. The danger for Havana is now over. It has been raining all over the island more than twenty-four hours incessantly, and there are fears of another disastrous flood in Vuelta Abajo and in Havana, Matanzas and Santa Clara provinces. The storm's trajectory shows that it will strike the southeastern portion of Florida, and perhaps will be more vio-lent there than here, as it was momentarily increasing in intensity while passing over this island. #### TODYISM.

In the ancient times it was the King's jester whose characteristics were to tody to the King, and when civilization became so prevalent in the land, todyism was considered acts of an ancient dispensation.

This is not, or it seems not to be so in our American politics.

This was fully demonstrated at the Bethel Literary on last Tuesday evening when the recent speech of Prof. Booker T. Washington was being discussed.

The non-office holders, Mr. L. W. Publies, a colored democrat, Wetherless, a colored republican and non office-holder, Prof. Richards, a non officer-holder, and other non office-holders opposed the paper and condemned the speech of Prof. Washington.

The opinon of office holders under any administration, democratic or republican is taken with a auspicious degree of allowance.

Mr. Jesse Lawson, the District Commissioner of the Atlanta Exposition has reported that there is no discrimination in Atlanta, notwithstanding the published letter of Mrs. Booker T. Washington and other ladies and gentleman who have been there.

The speech of Prof. Washington is as poisonous to the Afro-American negro as the asp that stung as to source us '00'th 'seasoning to Cleopatra.

After the churches had been dese-crated the Mussulman mob pillaged the villages and stole all the cattle and other property of value they could carry off. It is stated upon the same authority that over 150 Armenians were killed. The inhabitants of these villages had made application beforehand to the Governor of Balburt for protection against the raids of the Mussulmans, but the Governor sent only three gendarmes, who did not arrive until the murder and pillage were over. It is said that the names of the ring-leaders in this outrage are known to the authorities.

The news of this latest outrage has made a painful impression in diploprompt and energetic action on the part of the Powers to prevent further

PASHIONS IN MEDICINES.

A druggist has discovered that patent medicines have their fashions like hats and walking-sticks. There was a time when plasters were all the rage, but after sticking to them for som years the public taste changed, and then kidney and liver medicines came into vogue.

People who never knew they had sidneys began to take stuff that they had heard was good for them, and men first in the field got rich.

Cough remedies are having their innings now, there being something like 300 in the market, with any number of doctors and professors sitting up by night concocting more.

Bitters were in vogue universally at one time. A man whose sideboard was not provided with half a dozen differvarieties of bitters was considered old-fashioned and destitute of enter JA Ranks Soul prise.

Then there was the craze for pads. There were lung pads, and liver pads, and kidney pads, and foot pads man who wished to keep up with the times failed to go to his druggist and be measured for a pad. With a full quota of pads properly adjusted undershirts were superfluous.

America's purchases of silk from Japan have nearly doubled in ten years. The fire losses of the United and Canada, for the month of Septem

London streets are very long and each one is cro number of other streets running at right angles to it or cutting it diagon ally or otherwise. From this it results that there are an unconscionable num ber of street corners, each one the junc tion of two streets, or three, or four as may be. You may stand at any one of them without being told to move on and take in the vista of that portion of the town in which you happen momentarily to be. In this way the eye may grasp the prospectives of two, thre or four streets, successively, almost simultaneously, without as much as changing the position of one's body, in fact, by simply turning one's These streets are composed as follows A row of houses to the right is par alleled at a distance of fifteen, twenty thirty, forty or fifty feet by a seco row of houses to the left, or vice vers the fronts of each row of houses facing the fronts of the opposite row of houses, unless it be the backs which face each other, when it is a mews. A long and comparatively narrow space is thus left between the rows of houses the centre being a roadway for vehicle and the edges being for the safe pas-sage of pedestrians. This is the street. ## THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

TO POLITICAL HISTORY.

Interesting Review of Forty Years in the Public Service - Venezuela and Monroe Doctrine Position of Our Government-Important Addition to the Navy.

Special Washington Letter. Undoubtedly John Sherman's new book, "Recollections of Forty Years in the House, Senate and Cabinet," is the political sensation of the day. It is a book that will be largely read, and that will arouse a storm of criticism as well as the thoughtful attention of all students of American politics. It is a story not only of broad national politice, but of intrigue and jealousy, and there are secrets revealed that are decidedly sensational.

The feature of the book is its extreme frankness, Senator Sherman has chosen to write in a plain and almost blunt way, and there is little attempt at literary grace. The book is evidently in tended by the author as an exposition of the financial policy of the Republican party, which, to a great extent, is his own, and about the extensive and elaborate history of American finances is woven anecdote and personal reminiscence replete with interest to every student of politics.

One of the most sensational features of the book is the implied charge of connection with the Republican nomi nation of 1880. The book is full of inci dents and anecdotes relating to the exciting political times through which the author has passed as one of the principal figures. On the whole, admirable temper is shown, but those who are capable of reading between the lines can detect much of the strife and jealousy between the members of one of the most famous coteries of political leaders the country has known. There is evident criticism of Grant, Garfield, Arthur, Johnson, Harrison and other famous men living and dead. But the purpose of the criticism is evidently not malicious or revengeful. It is an exposition of events and motives as the author honestly sees them. There is less of a personal narrative in the book than might be expected Mr. Sherman speaks modestly of his boyhood days, of his family, and of his first appearance in public life. Many of his important public addresses dur ing the slavery agitation and during the political campa gns in which he took part are embodied in the book. His account of the civil war and of his association with Abraham Lincoln is full of interest as a narrative and as a historical record of the stirring events of that period In writing about himself, Mr. Sherman is candid to the point of self-criticism. For instance, he says that at the age of nineteen years he got into bad company, and was on several occasions conscious of being intoxicated. In relating the incident which influenced his whole life in this respect, he says one occasion, the fall of 1830, went home very sick from drinking My mother received me with such surprise and sorrow, but he her com-plained nor scoided, and with the utmost kindness put me to bed and watched over and cared for me. I was not enough stupefied to be unconscious of my degradation and her affection and then and there resolved never to be in such condition again."

These extracts from the address are quoted as indicating Mr. Sherman's theory of money: "All intelligent men agree that every great commercial nation must have both a metallic currency and a paper currency; the one as the standard of value by which all things are measured, which daily measures your bonds and notes as it measures wheat, cotton, and land; and also s paper or credit currency, which, from its convenience of handling or transfer must be the medium of exchanges in the great body of the business of life "I am one of those who believe that a United States note, issued directly by the Government, and convertible, or General Josephim Crespo, President of Venezue emand, into gold coin, or a Government bond equal in value to gold, in the best currency of the future, not only in the United States, but in Great Britain as well; and that such a cur rency might properly continue to be a legal tender except when coin is specifically stipulated for." Another extract from the utterance of the author defines in a word his esition on the silver question. After e concludes: "So that, for all practice purposes, we may regard gold as the only true standard, the true money of world, he which the value of all property, of all productions, of all cred-

There is Belle doubt that the trouble between Great Britain and Venesuela is approaching a crisis, and there is a sound basis for the apprehension that prevails in diplomatic circles that this Government may be pretty seriously involved in the difficulty. There is no loubt considerable Jingo sentiment rampant in England at present. Mr. Chamberlain's warlike instructions to

The Indiana Showing a Burst of *peed. the Government of British Guiana, and the alleged ultimatum sent by Salisbury to President Crespo, seem to be evidence of a determination to test the sincerity of the Administration in respect to the Monroe doctrine.

It is believed here that President Cleveland and Secretary Olney have taken a position from which they will not recede, and that Great Britain must ultimately yield. The American posttion is that Great Britain's claim to the disputed territory south of the Orinoco, which has recently become valuable by reason of the discovery of gold, must be submitted to arbitration.
Provided Great Britain undertakes to carry out the recent threats as declared in the British press, and to attempt an arbitrary settlement of the dispute by force, an active assertion of the Monroe doctrine by this Government is almost certain. We are in a position to send a very formidable fleet to South American waters, so formidable, in fact, that it would be more than a match for any British fleet now on this side of the Atlantic. Of course, there is little likelihood of such a warlike demonstration becoming necessary.

Great Britain is certainly not seeking a quarrel with us. She evidently wishes to carry her point without giving us an excuse to interfere, and this could be done should the Venezuela Government give way to buildozing tactics, or agree to a compromise that would suddenly take the question out of the field of diplomacy. Such an agreement would seriously embarrass our position. It is not believed, however, that President Crespo can be either intimidated or corrupted. He is a soldier of experience, and could, if necessary, place a formidable army in the field for defence of his boundary. His country has more to gain than to lose by a courageous policy. The answer of the Venezuelan Government to the British ultimatum is awaited with anxiety. There is much gratification in naval circles over the successful trial trip of the new battleship Indiana. This is the first of our first class battleships to be she is the fleetest and most powerful ship of her class affoat in the world. In speed, stability, armor protection, and gun power, the Indiana is unri-valled, and when she goes into commission under "Fighting Bob Evans" will be the monarch of all fighting ships hitherto constructed. It does not detract from her success that we have still more formidable sea monsters in stfil more forminant process of construction.

AN EXPOSITION WOMAN. A Hustler of the New Kind as Seen at Atlanta.

An excellent bit of comedy, in which a prominent family of Atlanta consti-tutes the dramatic person, was enacted a short time since—on the opening day, in fact, of the Woman's Building. It was at the twilight hour of that auspicious day. The members of that family had just come in from the various occupations of the afternoon. man of the house went up to his wife with anxious inquiry:

"The Woman's Building is finished?"

"Yes," was the reply. "All done, and thrown open to the ublic?" he persisted.

"Yes, "Well, I should like to see ou in the sitting room awhile on a matter of some importance. Come in as soon as you can and bring in the children and the ser vants." The wife somewhat wonderingly did as desired. No sooner had the entire family assembled than the husband rose and said with solemnity, "My on, will you take the chair?" The boy, a lad of sixteen, seated himself in the large chair placed by the table.

"I rise to make a motion," continued the man of the house, with great earnestness. "In view of the fact that the Woman's building is now completed and the main work of the Board of Woman Managers (of which distinguished body the wife and mother of this household is a member), is practically finished, move that the institution called home ormerly known and loved in this residence, be once more established here, and that Mrs. C-, the honored wife and mother aforesaid, be asked to take the Presidency of this organization. Has my motion a second?" "I second the motion," said a young

Go to Alfred Austin London, Oct. 30 .- Since the statement was made recently in the Daily News that Lord Salisbury intended to choose a poet laureate from the ranks of journalism to succeed the late Lord Tennyson, many conjectures have been indulged in as to who would be selected to fill the office. A statement made by the Bookman that Mr. Alfred Austin has been appointed is probably a guess, based upon the assertion of the Daily News.

The Bookman, after saying that it had been informed, on what appeared to be reliable authority, that Mr. Austin to be reliable authority, that Mr. Austine had been selected for the office, adds' that the appointment will be formally announced next month. The Bookman is a supporter of the Liberal party, and has no access to government news. Lately it was stated that Mr. Menley would be the pest poet laurents. It is presumed that his name and that of Mr. Austin are mentioned, because both are Conservatives and journalists.

The Daily Chappine will to-mowew say: "Mr. Austin is simply unthinknels as poet laurents. We can hardly conceive that on great an injury to literature is meditable."

There is leprosy in Key West-four or five cases—but, according to a physician interviewed by the Florida Times-Union. there is leprosy in nearly every large city in the United States, New York. Philadelphia, Boston, while at New Orleanes they have a leper hospital.

"There may be a case in Jacksonville for all I know," said Dr. Porter. "I don't know really that there is one, but if there was there should be no reason for alarm. "The leprosy of to-day is not the white as snow leprosy of biblical history. Lepers never turn white, but the disease nevertheless is one of the most mysterious and baffling that flesh is heir to. I don't know of a slower death than by leprosy. One just fades out of existence. The lobe of the ear is where the first symptom appears. The lobe swells and then gradually the ear shrivels away, becomes consumed within it-self, I might say, and disappears. Then the other parts of the face are attacked, eyelids, nose, and mouth. Then the fin-gers and hands and feet. The fingers and toes grow smaller and smaller until finally there is no semblance of a hand or of a foot. Anarchists in European Countries

About 2,000 persons in France are marked as Anarchists, and are constantly watched by the police of the various European countries, according to La Figaro, of whom 500 are French and 1,500 are foreigners, Italy leading with 540, followed by Switzerland with 300, Sermany and Russia with 240 each, Austria and Beigium with 60 each. As regards occupation, shoemakers, carpenters and day laborers of all nations furnish large proportions of the Anarchists, while the educated professions hardly appear. German tailors and printers, Swiss watchmakers and farmers, Italian clerks and bakers, and French waiters and persons without avowed business tend more to Anarchy than those of other nationalities. The Russians differ from all the others in that 30 per cent. of the persons under serveillance are students, another $0 per cent, profestional men, and hardly 1 per cent, have cupations requiring no education.

> Seven Hundred Homele New Orleans, Oct. -A fire broke out at Algiers, opposite this city, at a late hour Saturday night, and con tinued burning until 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when it was got under con-trol. Two hundred and twenty houses were burned. The fire was confined almost entirely to the residence portion of the town. The insurance is said to be very light and the loss is therefore almost total. Estimated loss is fully $400,000. Seven hundred people are homeless. The fire originated in an Italian's confectionery store, and everything seems to prove that it was in-cendiary. So intense was the feeling against the suspected man that if he could have been found early yesterday moraing he would undoubtedly have been lynched. He was arrested later and brought to New Orleans for safe-

Fell on a rock and was lame for seventeen years. Two bottles of MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT entirely cured both lameness and pain.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 7, 1804 Lyon Manufacturing Co., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—Seventeen years ago, while going home one night, I fell on a shap pointed rock, cutting a bad gash in my right leg near the knee. I was attended by a physician and eventually the wound healed but left me lame, and it was often very painful especially in the Spring of the year. Two years ago I was working for a farmer in Kansas who asked me what caused my lamences. I told him, when he brought out a bottle of Mexican Mustang Liniment telling me to try it. used two bottles when the lameness and pain entirely disappeared, nor have I have any trouble with my leg since.

Very truly yours, ROBERT JOHNSON, 1907 East 1886 M.

COLUMBIA CARRIAGE CO

Manufacturers Agents,

the choir of Immanuel Baptist Church has been given notice that after November 10 its services will be dispensed with. This is in consequence of the position of the new pastor, the Rev. Johnston Meyers, who says that art is all right in its place, but that it is no part of the mission of the concert stage. He likes such music in its place, but in church he says he prefers sacred songs, which change men's hearts and fives.

The Immanuel Church possesses a remarkably fine quartette, but this fact has failed to impress the new minister. He wants the congregation to do the singing.
